Elemental Phenomena:

The Encounter Of Two Worlds

Organized Matter + Guadalupe Quesada

Two art projects, Artbug, located at the heart of Art District, Los Angeles and El Salón Arte from Mexico City, collaborate to present an international duo show "Elemental Phenomena: The Encounter of Two Worlds". This exhibition hosts the sculptor installation of Organized Matter Studio (OM) by Krislyn Komarov and James Benn from the United States, and the Mexican artist Guadalupe Quesada with the curatory of Xaus Kahal.

Organized Matter is a production-design company and art studio with a focus on environmental space design, concept development and sculpture. OM Studio's current sculptural work is guided by the dialectics of beauty, brutality, ritual and fantasy, through a vast array of materials. As for Guadalupe Quesada, her artwork is driven by the questions of life and its infinite possibilities in the provocative context of alternative realities.

Through the systemic environment of this dual installation made of light and contrast, sound and texture, envisioning fantastic elements and entities from an outer world, the artists invite the viewer to experience, through the senses, this mystical landscape with the suggestion of expanding awareness and imagination into an open-ended interpretation of the natural world.

The opening will take place on September 10th at Artbug gallery from 17:00-21:00 hrs. and will be exhibited until November. Don't miss it.
